Ludovica e Roberto Palomba,

For the Palomba+Serafini studio, simplicity is sometimes an intuition in which the rigorous geometry of forms is renewed without abandoning the principles of the purest elegance and of the most essential minimalism. The lines of this modular sofa are never interrupted by elements that traditionally create a separation; the large seat stands on feet that are integrated in the frame of the sofa itself, an innovation that may seem obvious, but that is really brand new.

Steel structure with elastic belting and padding in polyurethane foams with different densities. Reversible back cushions (included) in feather and synthetic fiber with different comfort. Removable cover in fabric or fixed in leather. Indoor use only.
